

GRIT-4Health

“Tough” Gets You Through Today.

GRIT Gets You Through Tomorrow

Some days, it feels easy to stay strong. But it’s also hard not to give into fear, feeling overwhelmed, and even a little hopelessness, sometimes. On those days, there’s a hidden strength you can tap into—resilience.

Spread support in your community by signing up for GRIT Resilience Training. GRIT is a free five-hour training designed specifically to support and build resilience in yourself and your community.

With GRIT-4Health, designed specifically to support and build resilience in the healthcare community, an industry that has been disproportionately impacted by the stress and impact of COVID-19 and other disasters, learn foundational education on stress, trauma, and resilience, and key steps in reaching out and making meaningful connections in the healthcare community while focusing on strengths!

This free training is available in self-paced learning and is packed with helpful resources, including specific resources for healthcare workers.

Sign up and learn more at www.letstalkgrit.com

Find more training and research opportunities at www.resilience.uccs.edu